

Data Science

Data science combines statistics, programming, and domain knowledge to extract useful information from data.

Data preprocessing includes cleaning missing values, removing duplicates, and transforming features.

Exploratory data analysis helps identify patterns, distributions, and relationships in datasets.

Feature engineering creates useful input variables for machine learning models.

Data visualization can communicate trends and relationships clearly.